Revision of REACH

As Ministers of Environment from Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Luxembourg, and Norway we want to stress the importance of a timely implementation of the ambitious Chemicals Strategy for Sustainability, including the importance of revising REACH in order to protect health and environment in the EU.

The timely revision of REACH is a cornerstone in greening the chemicals legislation following the Green Deal by achieving EUs ambition to increase sustainability and competitiveness across sectors. At the same time, the revision is paramount as to increase the level of protection of human health and the environment and facilitate the transition to safer alternatives as described in the Chemicals Strategy for Sustainability. A sound management of sustainable chemicals is essential to strengthen the interplay between the green and digital transition.

It is not time to move backwards. It is time to stand up for the green transition and move forward by investing in long-term sustainable actions. To this end, the REACH revision plays a crucial role. We need to ensure the EU lives up to the promises made in the Green Deal, the Zero Pollution Ambition, the Circular Economy Action Plan, the Chemicals Strategy for Sustainability and other initiatives to maintain global leadership in the sound management of chemicals.

We strongly encourage the Commission to proceed with the planned revision of REACH and not leave it to the next Commission to deliver on your promises.

Sincerely,

Leonore Gewessler
